

➔ Ticket Changes for EVA Air New Route – Washington, D.C.

1. Eligibility

Passengers with confirmed bookings on EVA Air (695) or UNI Air (525) tickets to/from Washington transfer via EVA USA or Canada routes and issued on/before 12FEB 2026.

2. Changes

Passengers may rebook onto EVA Air direct flights to or from Washington without incurring a change fee for one time only, provided the origin and destination cities remain unchanged and the rebooking occurs within the ticket's validity period:

(1) Totally Unused: Changes to any flight segment will require a fare recalculation based on the reissue date. Any resulting fare difference, taxes, fuel surcharges, or booking service fees shall be paid by the passenger.

(2) Partially Used:

A. If rebooking is made on a direct flight with the same travel date and the same booking class (RBD), the ticket may be changed without additional charges. Carry forward the original fare/fare basis/fare calculation/baggage allowance /TFC...etc. to the new ticket and add an S- at the beginning of the fare calculation.

B. If rebooking is made for a different date and/or in a different booking class (RBD) and no applicable fare is found, recalculate and reissue in accordance with the applicable fare rules, using the new RBD, flight/date of the original routing. Any resulting fare difference, taxes, fuel surcharges, or booking service charges shall be paid by the passenger. When reissuing the ticket, apply the new fare, fare calculation (NUC), and update the fare calculation routing to reflect the direct route.

(3) Re-ticketing: the phrase ‘REISU TO IAD DIR FLT’ should be added at the beginning of the Endorsement/Restriction box.

3. If a ticket is changed with the reissue fee waived but is subsequently voluntarily changed or refunded, the service charge will not be waived.
