RODENT CONTROL

As we enter the Fall and Winter months and the temperature starts to drop, rodents begin looking for places to reside for the next few months. If they choose to crash at your place, they can cause a lot of damage to your property (and that of your adjoining neighbours). Here's what you can do to discourage their access to your home:

- Install door sweeps on exterior doors (including the one in your garage).
- Inspect your garage door for damage or gaps between the black rubber seal and the ground (notify Strata if you discover this issue).
- Use commercially available foam or steel wool to fill cracks around the garage door frames.
- Patch holes in the drywall, particularly in the garage.
- Keep your garage neat and tidy, and avoid having miscellaneous items pushed up against walls.
- Check under the sinks for gaps in the drywall and around the plumbing fixtures. These can be filled with commercially available foams or steel wool.
- Do not leave food in your backyard or garden area.
- Use natural mint spray or essential oils around the perimeter of your property (this works well year round to deter insects too!)
- Place dryer sheets in crawlspaces and other areas that you are worried about rodent incursion. They do not like the smell.
- Store food in airtight containers and dispose of garbage regularly.
